

The Dallas Association of Directors of Volunteers (DADV) was established in 1994 by a group of volunteer leaders with a vision: to enhance their professionalism and knowledge of the industry, to learn more creative ways to use volunteers, and to give all leaders of volunteers an opportunity to share experiences, ideas, and skills.

Why you should become a member of DADV:

- Networking with other professionals in volunteer management
• Scholarships for continuing education, conferences, and seminars
• Opportunities to hear community leaders and experts in the field of volunteerism
• Access to the DADV Job Bank
• Mentoring available for those new to the field
• Opportunities to showcase your organization during DADV meetings
• Up to date information via DADV website: www.dadv.org
• Support for you and what you do from people who understand your job
• "It's All About You!" luncheon celebrating professionals in volunteer management
• Free lunch at general membership meetings
